

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction • Human Limits	1
Chapter 1 • How to Make a Human
I. “Elles were Beest Lich to Man”: Dominance, Human Reason, and Invocations of Likeness in Sidrak and Bokkus	29
II. The Reasonable Body	44
Chapter 2 • Mastering Violence
I. The Legitimized Use of Force: Animal Acquiescence	61
II. Carrion in the Penitentials: The Filth of Animal Appetites	67
Chapter 3 • In and Out of Mortal Flesh
I. Animal Resurrection: Opening and Shutting the Gates of Heaven	92
II. Half Man, Half Pig?: Meat, Digestion, and the Resurrection of the Body	108
III. How Delicious We Must Be	118

Chapter 4 • Domesticating Beasts: Cynocephali, The Wild Herdsman, and Prudentius's Indomitable Sheep
I. Cynocephali: How a Dog Becomes Human	136
II. The Wild Herdsman	151
III. Sympathy's Consolations	162
IV. The Good Conscience of a Sheep: Prudentius's "Ante Cibum"	169
Chapter 5 • Pigs, Butchers, and The Ends of Humanity
I. Dirty Pigs	179
II. Making Mastery in The Avowyng of Arthur	189
III. Interlude: Grunnus Corocotta Porcellus, euersor domi	203
IV. Butchers	207
V. Conclusion: Blood in the River	217
Epilogue
I. The Noise of Animals in the Last Days	221
II. The Peasant's Oxen and Other Worldly Animals	232
Works Cited	247
Index	281